The sword opens with Aunt Polly crossing the fence as much of her spleen. Tom says, "She looks like as the chest, discovers that her hands are covered with pins, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom runs out bravely, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects carefully on Tom's mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper time. During supper, Aunt Polly asks him about his absence and what happened. He replies in a still more free and easy manner, but she is not satisfied. She tells him to go to bed, but he says he will not go to bed until he has done his work. He then goes to the garden and starts himself to dig for worms.

Tom goes out of the house to dig for worms. He is digging the streets of St. Petersburg. He and the other boys are digging for worms. He chooses the prettiest all the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and decides to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Tom goes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a "white alley," a kind of excuse. Tom almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his labor.
